Ukraine: Victory to the people

As I write this editorial, Russia has launched an unprovoked attack and invasion of its neighbour Ukraine. Thousands are dead and almost five million White Christian woman and children have fled to safety while their men have stayed behind to fight the invaders. The Russian action has been condemned by most of the civilised world with the exception of Communist China, India and North Korea. Sadly there has been some support for the invasion by a minuscule number of British nationalists who support the cause of Russian speaking nationalists in East Ukraine. Whilst these Putin apologists are entitled to their opinion, sadly our political opponents will use this to smear British nationalism in its entirety. Reports that Russian soldiers are mass raping Ukrainian women and children have come as no surprise. When their predecessors of the Red Army invaded Berlin in 1945, they raped an estimated 130,000 German women and children. One of Putin's excuses for invading Ukraine is to "de-Nazify" the country.

So my support naturally goes to the Ukrainian people.

Seig Heil!

Britain's Disgrace

Some newspapers are reporting that a 14 year-old boy waiting in a queue at a South London food bank fainted with hunger and was taken to hospital. The hospital confirmed the boy was suffering from starvation. When questioned, he confirmed he hadn't eaten for a couple of days as the cupboards at home were empty.

In the meantime government sources confirmed that over 5 million pounds had been spent on pizzas and 4-star hotel accommodation for illegal migrants arriving in small boats across the Channel.

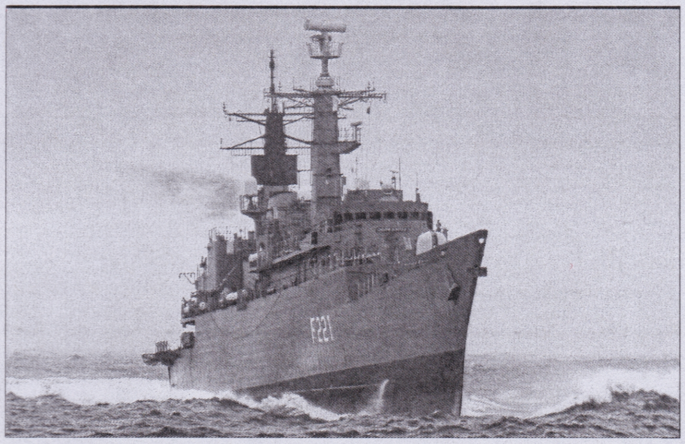
British Navy Now Migrants Taxi Service

Britain's once proud Royal Navy, feared and respected throughout the world is being demoted to becoming a taxi-service for illegal migrants crossing the English Channel.
The move follows the abject failure of the Home Office controlled Border Force to prevent tens of thousands of illegal migrants from invading Britain.

Home Secretary Priti (useless) Patel said the MoD had been commissioned as a "crucial operational partner to protect our Channel against illegal migration". In a desperate bid to deflect criticism of her abject failure to stop the latest invasion of Britain she has created a "scapegoat". Rear Admiral Mike Utley, the commander of the UK strike force, who has been appointed to co-ordinate the plans.

But what are the plans?

A Ministry of Defence spokesman announced that discussions about the armed forces working with the Home Office and UK Border Force had been taking place for several weeks.
They said no decisions had been made over how the Royal Navy or other services would be involved, and there was no indication it would involve pushing migrant boats back to France.
That is despite Ms Patel suggesting in the House of Commons that the armed forces could be involved in the controversial policy, saying this was "absolutely the policy of this government".



Our Royal Navy, Once Nelson's Pride. Now to be Deployed as a Migrant Taxi Service

So what are the plans?

In truth, the only firm plan on the table is for Ms Patel to save her job.!
Her trademark of talks, consultations and statements of intent continues.
All talk no action!

In addition to passing the buck for Channel security to Rear-Admiral Utley, the Home Secretary has also employed Australia's former Foreign Affairs Minister, Alexander Downer, to "carry out a thorough review of the UK Border Force.
It is understood that Mr Downer will review all of Border Force's work including port checks and asylum claims. It is conceded that the review will take months to complete.
Whilst the invaders continue to flood in!

Mr Downer is known to be a big fan of the "push-back" policy promised by Priti Patel but this could lead him into early conflict with the "Public and Commercial Services Union" (PCS) the trade union that represents many of the Border Force employees, and has joined forces with the pro-migrant charity, "Care4Calais" to opposed "push-back" tactics.

Meanwhile the Navy have discovered that most of their available boats sit too high in the water to safely transfer migrants from their dinghies, and are looking to lease between ten and twenty low-platform vessels to taxi the invaders safely to British shores.
In the first month of the New Year 1,341 migrants arrived on British shores. This compared with just 223 in January last year.

 In addition to the 28,000 plus invaders who arrived across the English Channel in small boats last year the Home Office estimates that up to 9000 more invaders entered Britain hiding in Lorries etc.

Asian Men Jailed for Rape of 14 year-old

A gang of Asian men who raped a 14-year-old girl and 'abused her systematically and repeatedly' over a two-year period have been jailed. The Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) said eight men were found guilty of 23 counts of rape and two of conspiracy to rape in two separate trials at Bradford Crown Court last year.

The girl was raped by eight men in the Keighley area of West Yorkshire over a period between 2008 and 2009, when she was aged between 14 and 16.

Six men faced sentencing when they appeared at Bradford Crown Court.

Child Rapists Jailed

Nazir Khan, 30, of Keighley, was jailed for 12 years for two counts of rape. He was also given an extended eight-year licence period. He was already on the Sex Offenders' Register.

Kamran Hussain, 29, of Keighley, was jailed for five years for rape and was also ordered to sign the Sex Offenders' Register for life.

Omar Safdar, 30, of Oldham, was jailed for 12 years for three counts of rape. Imran Sabir, 42, of Keighley was jailed for 12 years for two counts of rape

.Hassan Basharat, 32, of Keighley was jailed for 12 years for three counts of rape, and Barber Hussain,36, of Bradford, was jailed for 13 years for seven counts of rape.

Two other men are still awaiting sentencing.

English Democrats plan to contest all three by elections

A forth by-election could happen if a planned recall by voters of Leicester East goes ahead against the former Labour, but now independent MP Claudia Webbe , Miss Webbe was recently convicted of harassment charges against a love rival, who she threatened with an acid attack. She received a suspended jail sentence.

NEWS AROUND BRITAIN

Nationalists Disappointed in Southend by-election

Nationalist parties failed to make any major impact in the Southend West by-election. The election, was called following the murder of the sitting MP Sir David Amess

Because of the circumstances, the by-election was boycotted by Labour, Liberals and the Green Party, all of whom decided not to field candidates thus giving the Tories a clear run at the seat.

This lack of competition led to a turnout of just 24%.

Predictably, the Tory candidate, Anna Firth won by a landslide polling 12,792 (86% of the vote) with her nearest challenger polling just 512 votes (3.45%).

The once mighty UKIP came third, polling just 400 votes (2.69%)

The English Democrats finished fourth polling 320 votes (2.15%). This poor result must have left the party severely disappointed as they had an excellent candidate in Catherine Blaiklock and a hard working team canvassing door to door.

Jayda Fransen, leader of the British Freedom Party had to stand as an independent, as the BFP have still not registered as a political party.

Jayda ran a slightly bizarre campaign calling for both greater protection of Britain's borders, coupled with the demand that voters deliberately spoil their ballot papers!

Of those who chose not to spoil their papers but instead vote for Jayda totalled 299 (2.01%) putting her in fifth place, but those who did choose the spoiling option totalled 1,084.

With local elections beginning in May we can expect more nationalist parties entering the electoral arena.

The newly re-registered Britain First Party, led by Paul Golding have announced they will be standing 50 plus candidates and have already started campaigning. The For Britain party, led by Anne Marie-Waters, also intends standing at least 50 candidates.

Neither the Patriotic Alternative party nor the British Freedom Party has yet to register with the electoral commission so will only be able to stand candidates as independents. We have no news about the intentions of the BNP or NF in the elections.

Ian Carser

1968- 2021

It was with great sadness that we learned of the recent death of British Patriot, Ian Carser.

Ian lived in Northern Ireland and had served as a part-time soldier in the Ulster Defence Regiment (UDR).

A long standing supporter and subscriber to League Sentinel, Ian was a fervent unionist and British Nationalist. Apart from the Union, the other love of his life was Linfield Football Club. Ian regularly travelled throughout Europe in support of his team.

Ian was a man who knew how to keep secrets and you could trust your life to him.

He will be sadly missed.

Child Grooming NOT in Decline !

"Many of the high-profile child sexual exploitation prosecutions have involved groups of men from minority ethnic communities"

Children are still being sexually exploited by grooming_gangs in all parts of England and Wales in the "most degrading and destructive ways", a report has found. The report, by the "Independent Inquiry into Child Sexual Abuse" (IICSA) said assumptions that abuse had fallen since high-profile cases in Rotherham and Rochdale were "wrong.".

In 2019-20, police forces in England and Wales identified more than 12,500 criminal offences as related to child sexual exploitation, but the Crown Prosecution Service does not collect the same data as cases progress.
Separately, council assessments that identified child sexual exploitation as a factor rose from 12,200 to 18,700 over the five years to March 2020.

The report said that poor data collection also "makes it impossible to know whether any particular ethnic group is overrepresented as perpetrators of child sexual exploitation by networks". "Many of the high-profile child sexual exploitation prosecutions have involved groups of men from minority ethnic communities," the report added. Professor Alexis Jay, chair of the inquiry, (pictured below) said: "The sexual exploitation of children by networks is not a rare phenomenon confined to a small number of areas with high-profile cases".

Sarah Champion, the MP for Rotherham, said the report "finally recognises the horror of grooming gangs and that victims and survivors have for so long been let down".

"This is the 18th report published by IICSA, costing tens of millions of pounds each year, but child abuse is still flourishing and little real change has taken place," she added.

"This must be the moment that we see urgent action to prevent further abuse happening."

Rotherham: Asian Grooming Gang

The report said that perpetrators in high-profile cases, such as Rotherham (pictured), had been South Asian men but it is impossible to know whether some groups are overrepresented nationally because of poor data

Grooming NOT in Decline !

Concerns about so-called grooming gangs have been growing since the late 2000s following a string of horrifying cases in Rotherham, Rochdale, Derby, Oxford, Bristol and Cornwall.

They involved a clear pattern in which groups of adult men befriended children, plying them with drink and drugs before sexually abusing them over months.
There has been repeated criticism of the police and child protection agencies for failing to take account of the fact that in some of the most serious cases the perpetrators were a distinct ethnic or religious community, while the victims were from another.

Huddersfield: "the perpetrators were a distinct ethnic or religious community, while the victims were from another".

IICSA examined abuse in St Helens, Tower Hamlets in London, Swansea, Durham, Bristol and Warwickshire. It found signs of abuse in the six areas studied but said there were "extensive failures" in how authorities tackled child exploitation, with police often unable to provide evidence on the extent of the problem. The inquiry concluded that abuse of children by grooming gangs occurred in all parts of England and Wales.

Its recommendations include improving the advice and guidance given to police and local authorities, a tighter definition of the problem, and the collection of ethnicity data.

Politically these victims are on their own as the main parties have closed their eyes to the problem. As stated, most local authorities, irrespective of the party controlling them, refuse the record the ethnicity of the abusers, it is too politically and racially sensitive.

Ultimately, it will be left to British nationalist parties to highlight the problem and protect our children. Please don't letn them down!

Look back at History

The Murder of Mussolini

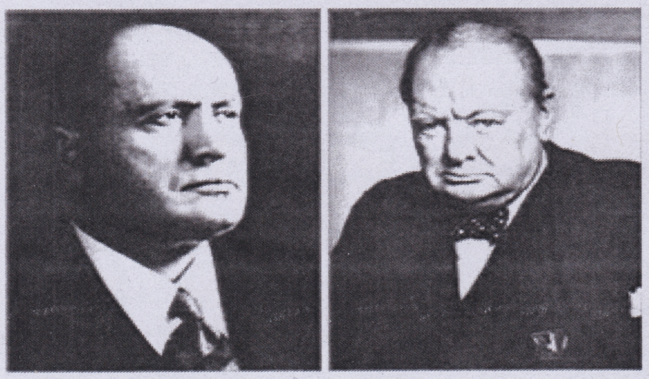
By P.A

One hundred and three years ago, on 23 March 1919, Benito Mussolini, as leader of the 'Fasci Italiani di Combattimento' was declared 'Duce of Fascism' thus laying the foundations of his "Socialism for the new idiom" (1). Two years and sixth months later, on 31 October 1922, following the 'March on Rome', Mussolini was appointed Prime Minister of Italy by King Victor Emmanuel 3. Thus at 39 becoming the youngest individual to hold this office up to that time

He then set about bringing Italy into the twentieth century and influenced, among many others, Adolf Hitler, in Spain - José Antonio Primo de Rivera (leader of the 'Falange') and our own Oswald Mosley.
Interestingly Fascism, with all its different National characteristics, is presented as 'ultra-conservative' (by detractors), but I'm sure readers will agree with me that the actions of Mussolini, Hitler and also Franco & Salazar in Portugal were instrumental in modernising their respective countries, but without destroying the culture and traditions held within. The following lyrics from the pre-war BUF song "Comrades The Voices' sum up Fascism succinctly - "Against vested powers, Red Front and massed ranks of reaction". And we still stand against these things to this day.

Benito Mussolini

Sadly, the purpose of this article isn't an appreciation of Mussolini's life, but a look at his death and the mystery that still surrounds it. As I've previously mentioned Mussolini influenced, and was admired, by many. One of these being none other than the future British Prime Minister and War-Time leader Winston Churchill.



Mussolini and Churchill

Churchill met Mussolini once in January 1927 after a Mediterranean cruise with his son Rudolf and brother Jack. Disembarking in Genova he wrote to his wife Clementine that "this country gives the impression of discipline, order, goodwill, smiling faces". From Genova he went to Rome where he met Mussolini, first at the Duces' offices, and then at a reception in the British Embassy. The headline of 'The New York Times' for 21 January 1927 read - "CHURCHILL EXTOLS FASCISMO FOR ITALY; He Declares It Has Taught the World the Antidote for Communism. "CHARMED BY MUSSOLINI" His Conferences in Rome He Says, Dealt With Improving Condition of (t)he Wage-Earner." (2) At this time Churchill was Chancellor of the Exchequer in Stanley Baldwin's Conservative Government, a position he held from 6 November 1924 to 4 June 1929. So hardly the rantings of a non-entity back bencher trying to make a name for himself.

The Murder of Mussolini

In February 1933 Churchill gave a speech at the Queen's Hall, London describing Mussolini as the "Roman Genius" and "the greatest law-giver among living men". Even as late as 1937 Churchill wrote an article on the Spanish Civil War for the American weekly magazine 'Collier's' entitled 'The Infernal Twins' in which he branded the "Nazi creed and the communist creed" as "godless religions". But still he could not resist heaping praise on Mussolini for "his extraordinary qualities of statesmanship, his magnificent courage and audacity, his untiring energy, his resolute will, his sure grasp of the possible". One of Churchill's best known pro-Fascist quotes is "If I was a young Italian, I would don the black shirt of the Fascisti".
After the Second Brother's War Mussolini was re-cast as a clownish buffoon, a figure of fun but in the 1920's and 30's he was seen as a saviour, the bulwark against Communism in Europe. Cole Porter's 1934 hit song 'You're The Top!' from the musical 'Anything Goes' in one version included the lines "You're the top! You're the great Houdini! You're the top! You're Mussolini!" That don't write them like that anymore!! All joking apart, Mussolini was a respected Statesman, but as the old truism goes "History is written by the victors".

The death of Benito Mussolini occurred on 28 April 1945 in the small village of Giulio di Mezzegra in Northern Italy. The generally accepted version of events is that he was shot by the Communist partisan, Walter Audisio. Though some sources claim Audisio was involved in the death Mussolini and "may" have been his assassin. However, since the end of the War, the circumstances of Mussolini's death, and the identity of his killer have come into dispute. The Duce and Claretta Petacci, were captured on 27 April by local partisans at Dongo, near Lake Como. By this time the Allies were breaking through the last German defences in Northern Italy and a general uprising of the partisans was taking control of the cities. Unlike Campo Imperatore, 12 September 1943, there could be no rescue of Mussolini by the retreating German forces, and what remained of the Italian army who stayed loyal had either already been killed or were fighting in the heroic, but eventually futile, defence of Berlin, so were in no position to help their Duce. So why the haste to execute Mussolini? Surely the humiliation of a 'show trial' and then his eventual execution would have served Allied anti-Fascist propaganda better? "Showing the man up for what he was", unless, of course, this "man", this great orator, in being given the chance to defend himself may have had some incendiary information to disseminate.
"Declassified documents reveal that up until 1940, Sir Winston Churchill was willing to offer Malta to Italy on a silver platter, as part of a deal to keep Mussolini's forces out of the war altogether. This 'diplomatic approach would cease immediately upon Italy's declaration of hostilities on 10 June 1940." This is taken from 'Malta Today' dated 15 August 2015.
Now we all know that there are 'Declassified documents' and other documents that will never be declassified, especially concerning WW2. On Monday 30 August 2004 RAI, Italian State Television, broadcast a documentary, co-produced by veteran American journalist, Peter Tompkins, claiming that Churchill ordered the killing of Mussolini.
Churchill was desperate to prevent secret letters coming to light in which he had tried to induce Italy to make a separate peace with the Allies. This was in defiance of his agreement with US President Franklin Roosevelt at Casablanca that the war could only end with the unconditional surrender of the Axis powers.

This documentary hinges on the evidence of one Bruno Lonati, a former Italian partisan. Lonati claims that the execution happened at 11.10 am, five hours earlier than previously believed, and he acted in tandem with British Special Operations Executive agent codenamed 'Captain John' (real name Robert Maccarone, of Sicilian descent), who also referred to "important documents" that he was ordered to retrieve. Peter Tompkins, who was himself a secret agent with the Allies in Rome in 1944, was adamant that Lonati's claim was true. Obviously this documentary has been consigned to the dustbin of history, and dismissed by Churchill admirers and his biographers as pure fantasy.
A strange anomaly is that the murder (for that is what it was) of Mussolini, without a fair trial, has always been presented as totally justified, though by their deaths by suicide Hitler, Göebbles, Himmler and Göring somehow escaped justice.
The Allies had Mussolini under lock and key. Keeping him alive to await trial would not have made him a rallying point for Italian Fascists, in the way that Tsar Nicholas 2 of Russia was for the White Army in the Revolution of 1917. (Though I am in no way condoning his, and his families, barbaric murder at the hands of the Reds.)
There was no snake that you had to cut the head off, and one can only come to the conclusion that Mussolini was murdered to keep him quiet.

If there are papers on this will they ever be 'Declassified'? You know the answer to this as well as I do!!

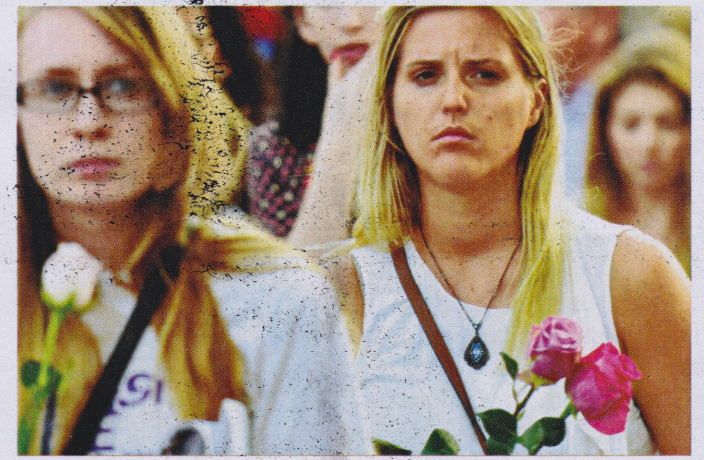
US Whites to Become a Minority by 2050

Results of the 2020 US Census reveals that Whites could become a minority in the country by 2050, owing to low birth-rates and mass immigration.

White deaths exceed white births and the "racial replacement" phenomenon that is sweeping throughout Europe is now having a major effect on the US population.

The census reveals that whites now makeup just 57% of the US population, down by 6% (223 million, down to 204 million) compared to the 2010 figures.

All non-white groups, Hispanics, Blacks and Asians increased in numbers.



US Whites: Soon to be a minority

In addition there are an estimated 20-30 million mainly non-white illegal immigrants thst do not take part in the Census and therefore are not counted in the population.

Le Pen and Zemmour Ready for Presidential Election

Both Marine Le Pen and her rival Eric Zemmour have collected enough sponsors' signatures to proceed as candidates in the forthcoming Presidential election.

The election will be decided over two rounds and will begin in April. The favourite to win is the sitting President Macron, who will face either Le Pen or Zemmour in the final round.

Marine Le Pen

Ms Le Pen has been hit by a series of high profile defections from her National Rally party, including her father, Jean-Marie Le Pen and her niece Marion Marechal.

They have switched their support to Ms Le Pen's rival, Eric Zemmour, the son of immigrant Algerian Jews who came to France in 1952. Mr Zemmour is described as a "practising Jew" and speaks Hebrew.

RECONQUÊTE

He has three criminal convictions for "hate crimes" brought about by comments publicly made about Islam and French Moslems, and is leader of the Reconquête (Reconquer) party.

British nationalists generally favour closer ties to the old White Dominions because they are of British stock, but a closer look at their history and demographics reveals a different picture.

Zimbabwe, formerly Rhodesia, was once a prosperous exporter of agricultural products. But since it was taken over by the African majority it's now an impoverished country. At its peak the white population reached 300,000 but today only 30,000 mostly elderly white pensioners remain.

South Africa is a black-run country in which Europeans are only 8.4% of the population. The majority of them speak Afrikaans. They are descended from Dutch settlers who arrived in the Cape in 1652. They were joined by French Protestants, who founded the wine industry, and Germans from Namibia, Portuguese from Angola and Mozambique, and British settlers who first arrived in the 19th century. It's estimated that there are over a million white South Africans living outside the country.

Canada was settled by the French in the 16th century and by the British in the 17th century. Today, 20% of Canadians speak French as their first language and most young Canadians are bilingual. Since WW2 immigrants from all over the world have added to the mix.

Australia was founded as a penal colony by the British in 1788. In the next 80 years 165,000 people were transported there for crimes such as stealing a loaf of bread. A White Australia policy was established in 1901 which lasted until 1975. The majority of Australians are of British descent but over 7 million immigrants, mostly from the Netherlands and Italy, have settled since WW2, and since 1975 immigrants from Asia and Africa have arrived.

New Zealand is a multiracial country comprised mostly of native Polynesians (17%) and European, predominantly British, settlers (71%). The rest of the population is made up of immigrants from Asia and Africa. New Zealand is responsible for a number of Pacific islands whose citizens have free access to the country.

Although the majority of people from the old White Dominions are of British stock, we must recognise the contribution made to their development by millions of our fellow Europeans. This fact should be considered by those British nationalists who oppose European unification. If we embrace Dutch-descended South Africans we should have no objection to Dutch people from the Netherlands. And if we accept French Canadians why not French people from France, and the same goes for Italian Australians, German New Zealanders and so on.

We are related not only to the old White Dominions but also to the nations of the European mainland, and to the European-descended people of the United States and South America. Mass migration from Africa and Asia has changed the demographic of most developed countries. A transformation driven by economic forces and encouraged by ideologically perverted politicians

Some British nationalists dream of a great resettlement to restore the racial character of our country, but it would take nothing less than a worldwide revolution to achieve such a goal. Meanwhile, our only hope lies in promoting European Solidarity. We can't predict future political developments but we can ensure the survival of our race and culture by sticking together and resisting the incessant propaganda of the liberal consensus.

It's Time to DIG FOR VICTORY

For many years Britons have been used to buying relatively cheap food from all over the world irrespective of season. It's called "global supply". But with a war raging between Russia and the Ukraine, basic foods are getting scarcer and the world prices rocketing. Russia and Ukraine export 35% of the world's grain and Russia provides 40% of the fish we eat. It is forecast that shoppers will face shortages of all grain products (flour and cereal) as well as fish and potatoes. So what can we do?

The obvious answer is to become more self sufficient in food production just as we did during WW2.

Before the outbreak of WW2 in September 1939, Britain imported almost 70% of its food needs. With enemy action restricting imports Britain was forced into dramatic measures to improve self-sufficiency, and by the end of the war in 1945, Britain had halved its imports, with the balance being made up from its own fields and barns. Also by the end of the war there were 1.4 million allotments often supported by the entire family. These produced 1.3 million tons of food. Self sufficiency at its peak!

The Entire Family Helped at the Allotment

Britain is blessed with good soil and plentiful rainfall, ideal for grass grazing land. Radical changes must be made, with sheep, dairy and beef cattle grazed back on grass instead of being reliant on expensive grain fodder. The government are encouraging landowners to "re-wild" arable fields. This involves planting turves of wild flowers and allowing the land to develop on its own. Very pretty but we need all arable land put to use growing food, grain or fruit and vegetables.

In the 1970's our new economic partners, the European Economic Community (EEC) paid our farmers to destroy their fruit orchards and import most of our fruit from within the EEC. Most of this land has now been replanted with Conifer trees for timber. Now is the time to reverse this trend. Re-plant our orchards in place of soft-wood trees. Timber is cheap and easy to import. Food is not!

Bring Back Our Orchards

Allotments in Britain must be massively expanded. Currently there are approximately 330,000 allotments being worked by family members. This is down from the 1.4 million we worked in 1945. Developers building flats must allocate land nearby for small "community" allotments. Schools must create school allotments, one for each year group. Our young people will be far healthier spending a couple of lessons a week on the school allotment than sitting in a overheated classroom slumped over a computer!

"Dig for Britain will improve our health, our community spirit and create a more natural environment for our wildlife. Go for it NOW!

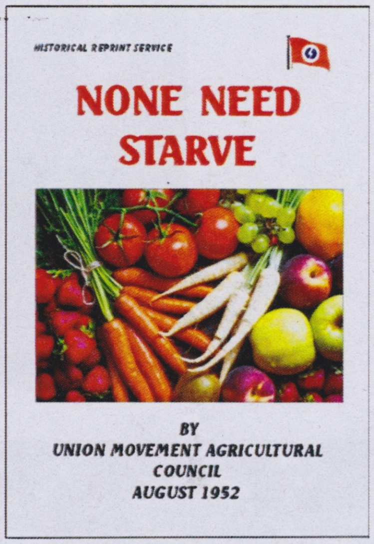
TWO NEW BOOKS FROM STEVEN BOOKS

Steven Books now have probably the largest selection of books on Fascism and National Socialism that is available today. Prices do not always include UK postage.

None Need Starve



Produced by the Union Movement Agriculteral Councuil. Three known members of this think tank were Jorian Jenks,Robert Saunders O.B.E. and Robert Row. They produced this booklet circa 1952 to define the best way forward for farmers to produce the maximum food with the least damage to the environment. Jorian Jenks was one of the founders of The Soil Association and a colleague of Reich Minister Richard-Walther Darre, whom he met after the war. Robert Saunders became Vice President of the National Union of Farmers and was awarded the OBE. Robert Row had been an agricultural worker and was formerly a leader in the BUF in Lancashire before the war. He suffered particularly cruel treatment during his interrogation under Defence regulation 18B. He later became the Editor of Action magazine
This very detailed booklet is divided into seven parts each in turn divided into sub chapters with titles such as Land Use, Land Tenure, Good Husbandry, Fishing, Marginal and Hill Lands, Imports, African Development, The National Loaf, Meat, Vegetables and Fruit, Credit Facilities and many others. Its warning of world population growth and world food shortage seem prosaic today.
